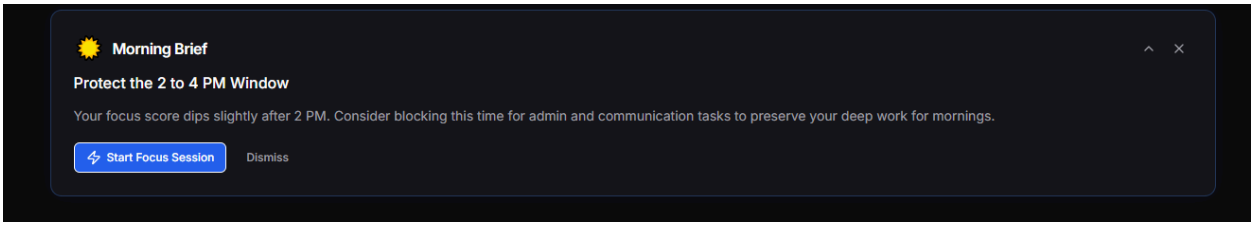
Features are missing

1. If you have a look over in the team dashboard, all the team members' specific boxes are fixed. There needs to be an option where we can move the boxes. You can place the first box of any particular team member, and you can place another box for any other particular team member. We can also place any other box of any other particular team member. We can move all the boxes, and the manager will place the team member who has the most priority so they will have a look on the top of that clearly. This is the one thing I am looking for.

1. In the below image, you can have a look. There is a morning brief. Whenever we click that into mark, it is going from the page. Whenever we click other tabs like team dashboard or organization, whenever we come back to my dashboard, the morning brief is appearing again.Also, as a person, I deleted the morning brief. Please try to create an option where we can't delete the morning brief at all. You have given an option to hide the information that is being shared by that AI, so we can hide that information. It shouldn't be. Please try to delete the option to remove that thing. Okay, please try to create that option. Thank you.



And also one more change is that any person can move anything up or down in my dashboard or in the team dashboard or in the organization dashboard. My dashboard means the employee can move, for example, if they want to move score over you below the time distribution, they can move that and place the time distribution today at the first. If they want to place, for example, score over you below task performance last 7 days, they can place that. It needs to be mostly customizable, not only this but all other data like below. If you want to move that below the productivity trend last 14 days, they can move that and also compare to periods, so they can also do that.

He can also move anything up or down; it needs to be customizable a lot. Not only this, my dashboard, but also the team dashboards also, so they can move easily every single thing in that and place what they feel is the most important thing on the top.

So, also, if you have a look in Steam performance over the last 7 days, there is only 7 days of data. Please try to give a small option for:

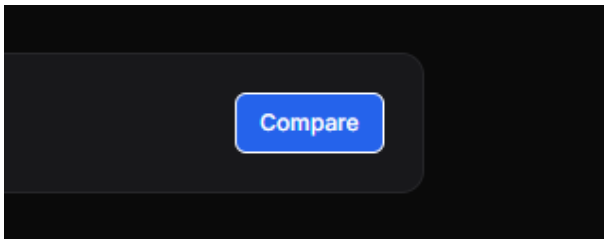
- Last 7 days
- Last 30 days

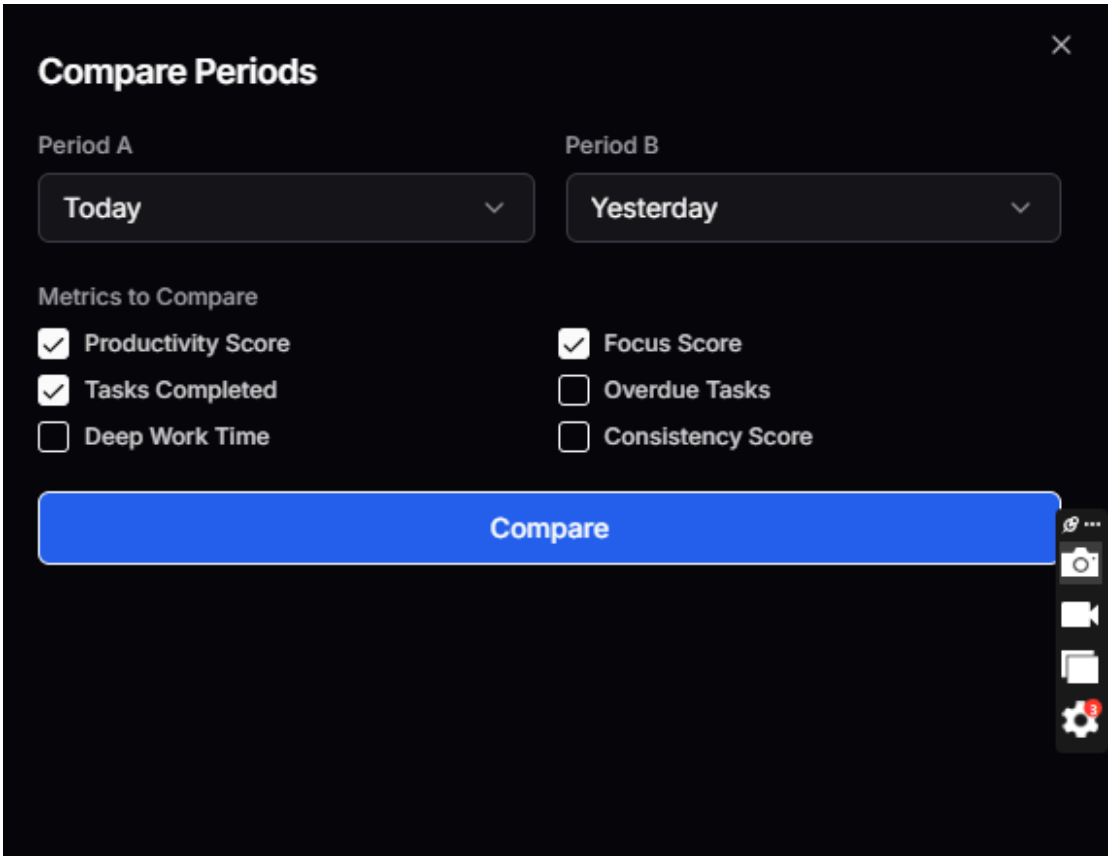
There also needs to be a customized option where, if they click that, they can select from which date to which date they want the productivity. They need to be able to manually select 7 days, and also the person can manually select 30 days. You can select a starting option versus the ending option so that all the data appears properly.

I hope you understood this. Please try to create this option in task performance where the person can select clearly the case, and this needs to be only in task performance.

And also, you have removed the time distribution. Today, no time data was recorded. Try to place some XYZ data so that I can check how it looks.

As you can see, in the below AI insights, you can have a look. Clearly, at the start of the box, there is a blue color and also a dot of blue color. Try to remove that. Don't try to place any color over there. Just let it be the normal color. It is looking not that great, so please remove that blue color over there.





In the above, remove the blue color for that campaign and try to place black, white, or gray according to what suits my app. I want to make my app look minimal and American stylish. I think the color is just black, white, and gray, so please try to remove that blue color.

You can see this line. This line is about productivity trend last 14 days, and also there needs to be a clear option for productivity trend where you can choose manually, not only 14 days. They can choose from any particular day to any particular day.

Okay, then please try to create an option for this productivity insights. There is only 14 days, right, so there needs to be an option where the person can choose any day from X day to Y day. Any days, like any days from January 1st to March 1st, they can choose any day, or like January 15th to March 25th, any days. They need to be like a calendar, with a starting point and an end point. Okay, please try to place this over there.

Also, there is a productivity line, so there is a blue color; please try to make that green color, okay.

Here, also try to remove the color of the start focus session blue color. Please try to remove that blue color here.

So here, productivity means it needs to be green color, but it is blue color. Please try to make that change too.

And also in the right side above the corner, please try to give an option called the three dots option where people can customize how it needs to look and how the page needs to function. Please try to give some customization in the right side above the corner. They can make some customization, like one customization which I recommend: color, turn off or turn on.

I told about all the blue colors needing to be removed, so let it remove completely, but now the option in settings needs to be, if you go down below, so there are four AI insights:

- Build on your momentum (coaching)
- Task velocity improvement (pattern)
- Achievement (green color)

You can give an option in settings where they can turn off or turn on the colors. If they turn off the colors, it will show normally, like black and white or grey colors. If they turn on the colors, it will show the colors according to that red or what we call this violet. They also need clear customization of each color. If they want to turn off the productivity trend colors, which you will make into green now it is blue, as I told about making it in green, they need customization of colors where they can turn off specifically only productivity trend. If they want to turn off, they can turn off that. They can only turn off AI insights colors. They can turn off those AI insights colors. If they want to turn off the bar graphs in task performance last 7 days, if they want to turn off that, they can even turn off those colors.

They do have an option to turn off all the colors, and you can also turn each section's colors. The same thing needs to be in the team dashboard and also in organization too. For each thing, there needs to be an option in the above right three dots option clearly which they can turn off and which they can turn on, okay, colors, and not only this turning off and turning on colors but also there need to be many other customizations for this.

Please try to take your time and clearly share some of the settings which they can do in the settings so that this page changes. There also needs to be an option of undo where they can click undo so that what is the before change comes back. There also needs to be an option called version history. Version history is nothing but, like, every single time when the person makes a change, it needs to record in version history. They can click on any particular time to redo so that our page looks like that. I hope you understood, so please try to create all these options and also other settings options which the computer has. Yeah, please try to think of it and please try to commit that option.

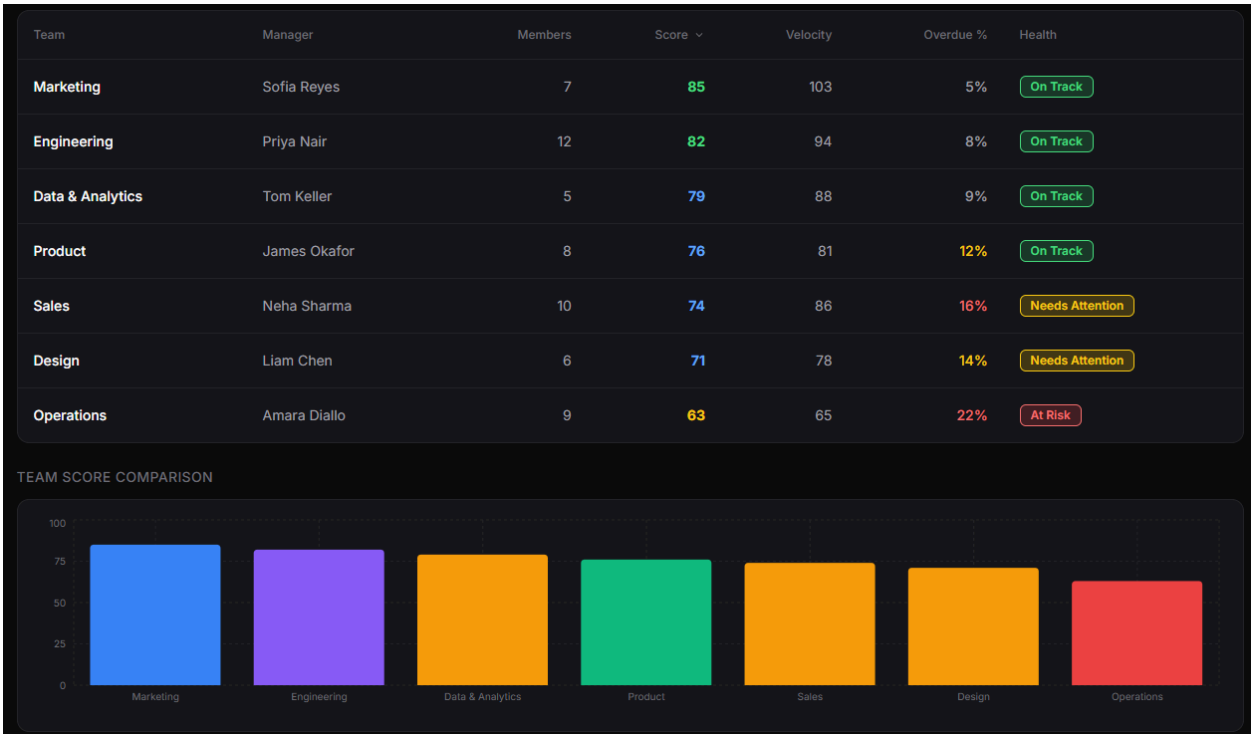
In this organization, there is a section called "Top Performers This Month". In that, there are only the top 15 people. They need to have an option below that, like "See More", so that another 10 to 20 employees may come, and I think they can advance by "See More" to see another 10 to 20 employees. It needs to be like that.

Also, if any person in the admin section or organizing section clicks on that particular person's name, it needs to clearly show all the details of that person, in-depth details of that person. That is one of the options. Please try to create that option.

And also in the organization. The organization means that the most important people are more than the managers, so they need to have the option of which person they need to choose as a manager. According to that, they need to have an option below of which person they want to choose as a manager. For the team dashboard, only the managers will get access to that particular team. All the people who are selected as managers, all the employees who are selected in that particular team, only the managers can see their tasks.

In organizations, they need to have an option like this. I hope you understood this. Please try to create this section in the organization where they can choose which person to select as a particular section manager, like marketing manager or what is the manager they want to choose. They can choose them.

For employees also, they need to have this, and also in the team dashboard so that the managers can see clearly their team only. It will only show the marketing members only. It totally depends on organization admins to add a particular person as a manager for others also, if they want to add for the admin or, that means, to add for many different things like marketing operations and others as a manager. It will show data of that too. It totally depends on admins.

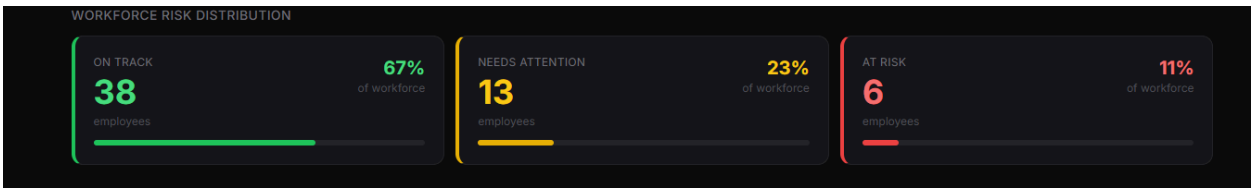


Team	Manager	Members	Score	Velocity	Overdue %	Health
Marketing	Sofia Reyes	7	85	103	5%	On Track
Engineering	Priya Nair	12	82	94	8%	On Track
Data & Analytics	Tom Keller	5	79	88	9%	On Track
Product	James Okafor	8	76	81	12%	On Track
Sales	Neha Sharma	10	74	86	16%	Needs Attention
Design	Liam Chen	6	71	78	14%	Needs Attention
Operations	Amara Diallo	9	63	65	22%	At Risk

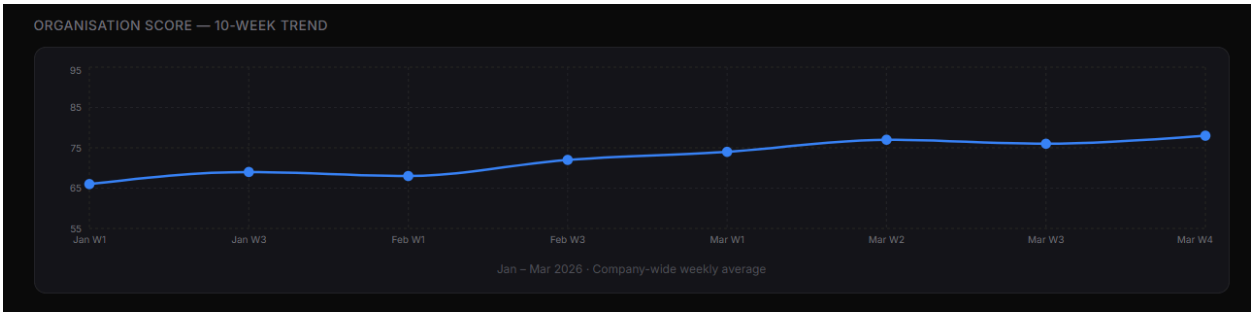
So in the above pic, please try to remove all the colors. The colors are not looking good at all. Please try to remove those colors.

And also in this organization tab, there is a section called Recent Activity. Please try to create an option below that as "See more". If they click "See more", more recent activity data will be loaded over there. Please try to create an option of that too.

And also the same with this AI execute briefs. Same below that, see more option so that more data will be appearing in that. Ok, please try to make that happen.



Please also try to remove this color above the colors of above.



And also, in this organization's code there is an option called 10-week trend. In this, try to create an option where they can choose a customizable time, like a particular starting time versus the ending time for that, in the organization tab. This is so that they can clearly check how the company is moving, the run of the particular company. If it is moving upward, then it needs to be green; if it is moving downward, then it needs to be red. No other color than that, ok.

Instead of having a customizable option for every single section, in an organization, try to place an option in the right corner (not in the settings three dots) where they can customize that one section. If they would customize that one section, for one month, one week, or any particular day, then all the data below, like the organization overview, organization score, and the 10-week strength, according to the dates, how many days, how many weeks, and how many months that he has placed, need to be shown clearly. It needs to make sure to show clearly the organization score and all those things.

There is no requirement for the individuals for organization overview, separate time changing thing, dates. Time dates are occasional; organizing score is separate, team score is not separate, and team score is nothing separate, and for top performance this month, nothing organization section.

In the right corner (not in the three dots but in the right corner), there will be an option where they need to have it clearly customized according to the dates that they customize. If that total page, total tab, needs to appear according to that, the same with the team dashboard and the same with my dashboard.

Please try to make that. Previously, what I told is that for every single box they need to be customizable; there is no need for that. For every single tab, in the right corner, there needs to be a section where they can customize. Right corner or left corner, which looks better, please try to make that clear, and according to that they can choose a particular starting time versus deadline. According to that, they can place whatever I told before, for every single box being customizable, please try to remove that. For every tab, we will try to make it happen.

And also they need to be an option for an organization where they can compare particular time, like xyz time, particular time to particular time, so they can compare clearly what is the time like. Clearly about the time, okay, so like last week versus this week. They can choose in that deadline also to compare this from January 1st to January 15th to February 1st together. You can do a lot of customization comparison, and they can clearly see their work, what they are doing and what they are up to.
